

Not a Rhino

Part A

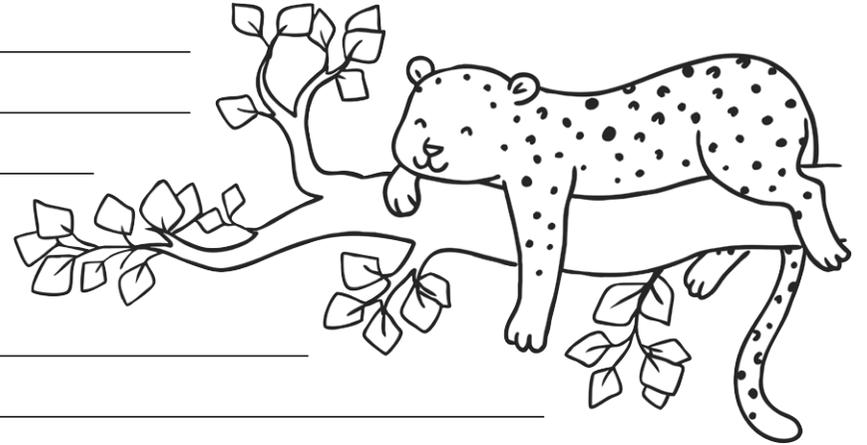

1. Ronald wants to be a leopard and not a rhino. Write down the reasons you think that Ronald wants to be something else instead of a rhino. Think about what he would look like, what he would be able to do and how it would make him feel.

Part A

2. Imagine you are Ronald. Explain how you can make yourself into a leopard. What will you need? How will you have to change the way you move, sound and act? What things will you be able to do as a leopard?

Handwriting practice lines consisting of multiple horizontal lines for writing the answer to question 2.

Not a Rhino

Part B

Ronald does not want to be a rhino. He wants to be like Leopard. Write a diary entry as if you are Ronald, explaining why you don't want to be a rhino but want to be a leopard.

E.g. Dear Diary,

I'm fed up. Every day is the same. Wrinkly skin, sharpening my horn...

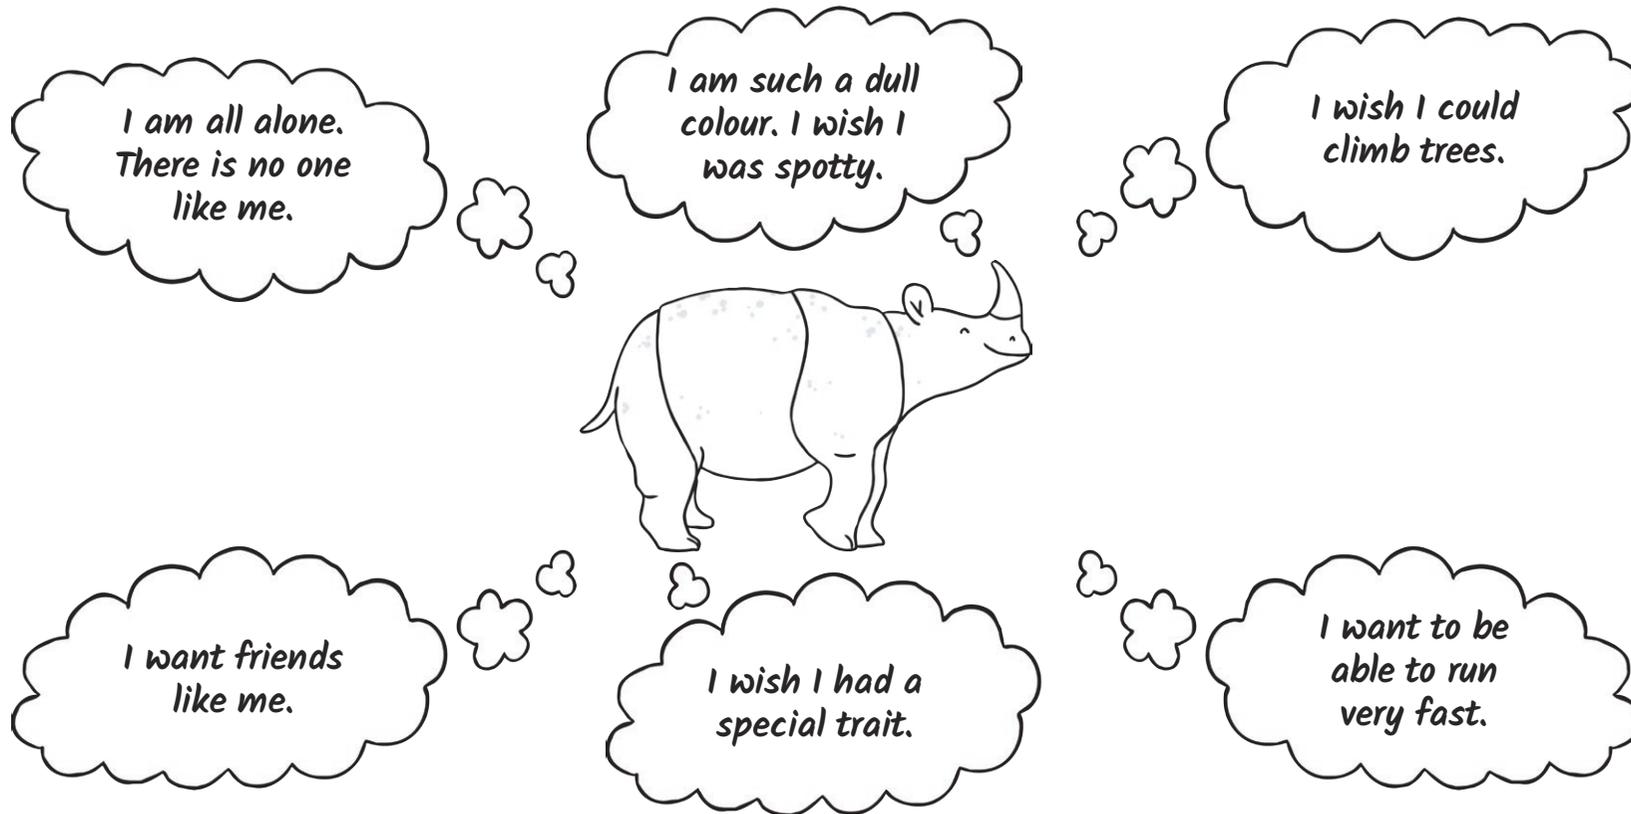

Challenge Task

Leopard tells Ronald that he can't be a leopard. Explain how this makes Ronald feel and why he feels this way.

To become a leopard, I would need to have spots. I can get spots by using mud and splodging it on my skin. I will need to learn how to climb trees too. As a leopard, I will be able to jump, leap and run fast. I will be able to creep up on my friends and make them jump. I will be really good at hide-and-seek because I will be able to climb trees and squeeze into small spaces.

Dear Diary,

I felt so lonely today. There is no one in the forest like me and I don't think I have any friends. I am the only one with dusky grey skin and a horn. I was wondering how I could make myself feel better when I saw Leopard. He has silky fur and dark spots. That's so much better than my worn skin! He can also run very, very fast. I would love to run that fast. He can climb really high up in the trees. I wish I could climb up high so I could see what the rainforest looks like from up there. I want to run and climb with other animals just like me, so I've decided to become a leopard. I am going to cover myself in muddy spots and start practising climbing straight away!

Leopard says I can't be a leopard. He says I'm too big and grey and that I'm a Javan rhino in every way. That really upset me. I think Leopard doesn't want me to be a rhino because he doesn't like me. He doesn't want me to be like him. I feel so lonely and unloved.
